I am a little disappointed (actually allot) about the recent "settlement" your department reached with Microsoft.

Why don't you just send them a bonus check rather than wasting the publics resources. Seriously, if you are going to file an anti-trust suite against them at least extract some justice in the process.

Microsoft's actions towards both the "software development related" industry and the end-user has been criminal.

First their practices rape the industry then rape the end users, now to make it even worse they rape the justice system.

Let's not get confused, i use Microsoft products, extensively. Why..? Becasue i have no other choice and that is the very problem. You know it and i know it; Microsoft is a theif!

I guess i expected Microsoft to scheam their way out of this one. I just did'nt expect you to be so stuipid as to let them.

P.S.

You need to change your name from "Department of Justice" to "Department of Suckers"...
